Teacher – friend 1

You and your friend are considering what to choose as a reward for having good results in an after school club. You have been told a few possibilities of which you like:

- going to the theatre or cinema
- visiting the zoo
- having a good meal in a restaurant

Persuade your friend about one of those options and explain to him/her, if necessary, why the other options are not good for you.

Student – friend 2

You and your friend are considering what to choose as a reward for having good results in an after school club. You have been told a few possibilities from which you like:

- going to the swimming pool
- visiting an art gallery or a museum
- going for a one afternoon skiing trip

Persuade your friend about one of those options and explain to him/her, if necessary, why the other options are not good for you.

Tell the students that they will be listening only to the first 5 people.

Extract 1
A: How did you start your career? What gave you your first idea?
B: I was sitting in my mother´s car doing my homework while she did the shopping and I thought how wonderful it would be if people could write in the dark. I did some research and I finally found something that seemed to work. I actually won an award for it and there was an article in a national newspaper.
A: How old were you at that time?
B: I was ten when I started but it took me about four years to get it completely right.

Extract 2
I´m sorry to bother you but I wonder if you could just stop for a minute – I´m not going to ask you a lot of questions! I work for the World Wide Fund for Nature – my office is just around the corner, you may know where it is – and we´re trying to finance a special new campaign to protect the snow leopard. I don´t know whether you already give to the WWF but this is a particularly urgent issue, and I wondered if you would like to help.

Extract 3
A: I think we should go back and check.
B: I´m sure you wouldn´t have left it on. You never do things like that.
A: But I can´t actually remember switching it off. Please don´t laugh at me – I just can´t remember!
B: We can always ring Carla and ask her to pop in and have a look. She has got a key after all.
A: You don´t think she´d mind, do you?

Extract 4
Susan, I think this is an interesting idea but I´m not sure that it would appeal to everyone. A lot of young people won´t be able to see the usefulness of something like that, so you obviously have to go about marketing your invention very carefully. I would emphasise the safety aspect, if I were you, and try to sell it to people do mountaineering and things like that. They might be very interested in your invention.

Extract 5
Your special and unique memories can be preserved in our luxury time capsules. We use only the strongest materials to ensure that the valuable objects you have chosen to represent your life and times will be in perfect condition 25, 50 or several hundred years from now.
