HOLIDAY NIGHTMARE

For me, holidaying alone in sun-drenched Majorca was a kind of nightmare. Temperatures were zooming in Palma that July when I stepped out onto my balcony at the Pallas Atanea Hotel. I closed my balcony door behind me and after 10 minutes was so hot that it was time to retreat to my air-conditioned room.

0. __I__

Nobody was about; all the other balconies on that side of the hotel were empty. No sounds came from any of the rooms. My room was at the back of the building, far away from the main entrance. And it was siesta time.

1. __I__

I thought of dropping something over the balcony to the street below. An ashtray perhaps, or, if things got really desperate, a chair. But what if I hit a passer-by? Would my holiday insurance cover it?

2. __I__

I kept shouting for help, waving my arms and leaning as far over the balcony as it seemed safe. I told myself not to panic. If the worst came to the worst, the chambermaid would find me the next morning.

3. __I__

Hours seemed to pass and the balcony was like an oven. But, eventually, my cries reached a girl on the footpath far below. She stopped and stared at this strange woman with arms waving.

4. __I__

My hopes rose briefly again when a few minutes later she walked slowly back the same way. I shouted louder, but once more she passed by.

5. __I__

So I used my fingers to count it out. It worked. The second girl nodded and disappeared round the block to the front of the hotel. A few minutes later, a porter came to free me.

6. __I__

The hotel manager was smoothly sympathetic and apologetic but he could not see how it had occurred. All balcony doors had been adjusted to prevent just such a thing happening, he claimed. He later sent a basket of fruit to my room.

7. __I__

As for me, I swore I would never again close the door of a hotel balcony behind me. Particularly, when it is 35° C.
Seven paragraphs have been removed from the text on the previous page. Choose one of the paragraphs below (A, B, C, D, E, F, G or H) for each gap in the text (1-7). There is one extra paragraph. The first one (0) is done for you.

A The tour operator’s rep promised to warn other visitors of the danger, but I felt this would not be her top priority. Foreign tourists in Spain, I gained the impression, are capable of much sillier things than getting stuck outside their rooms.

B Or had I left ‘Do not disturb’ notice outside my door? What happens in a big hotel if a guest goes missing? How long does ‘Do not disturb’ sign hang there... a day, a week perhaps? Would the room’s next occupant arrive to find my fried remains?

C Meanwhile the balcony was becoming hotter and hotter, and I felt trapped and helpless. In desperation, I began to call for help, but there was no one to hear me.

D Then, what seemed like an age later, she returned with another girl and I was able to signal that I was locked out of my room, but as I do not speak Spanish I could not tell them my room number.

E I couldn’t ring the tour operator to find out, even though they had promised to be on the other end of the telephone. I couldn’t ring anyone – the phone was on the other side of the double glazing.

F Fortunately, she understood English and shouted back that she was going to get help. Then she went quickly round the corner in the direction of reception.

G He thought it was rather funny and assured me that it had happened before. I never did get to thank the two girls who noticed my plight.

H She must have thought I was slightly mad, or a victim of sunstroke, She shrugged her shoulders and walked on. I was almost in tears.

I But I couldn’t. The door had locked by itself. A latch on the room-side of the door had dropped down. It was a few minutes before I realized I was trapped.

Choose the best answer (a, b, c or d) and write the letter of your answer in the gap provided.
