LISTENING COMPREHENSION

(Please read twice.)

Today, for one day only, I've joined the road crew of a rock band. The band is on tour for three weeks. Tonight they're planning a gig in Cardiff. It's 10:30 in the morning and we're on the tour bus now. We're going to Cardiff. Everyone's laughing about last night's gig in Manchester – it was really windy and the sound in the stadium was terrible.

It's 4 in the afternoon. We've arrived at the stadium. The band members are doing media interviews. But for the crew, it's not so glamorous! Our first job is to carry the equipment – the guitars, the amplifiers – from the bus to the stage. There's quite a lot of it and it's heavy work! Phew!

It's 6 in the evening now. We're setting up the equipment on the stage. The crew are testing the guitars and checking the sound. Everybody is busy and stressed. There are thousands of fans out there already.

It's 8:35. It's the start of the show. My job is to look after the guitars for the bass guitarist. He changes guitar after nearly every song. I have to give him the correct one. If I dropped one, he'd never speak to me again! I'm nervous.

It's 1 a.m.. We're back at the hotel ... the show was brilliant. There's a party for all the crew tonight [yawns], but I'm too tired. Did I enjoy it? Definitely! Would I do it again if they asked me? Possibly! Goodnight!

ROLEPLAY

STUDENT

You have recently moved and have to go to a different school than before. You loved your old school and think it was the best in the world. But you're at your new school now and would like to find out as much about it as you can (of course, it can't be as good as your old school!). Ask a schoolmate and try to get as much information as possible. You do not know anything about the timetable, the school rules, the teachers, the lunches or after-school activities. Try to be friendly and talkative.

TEACHER

There's a new kid at school that wants to know everything about your school. You are very proud of your school and don't think any school can be as good as this one (your school won the city championship in football and basketball last year, has the best drama club in the country and always does the best on tests too!). You usually don't like new kids but you need help in maths so if they're good at maths, you might ask them to join your school club. Find out what else they're good at – because you have to be GREAT to attend your school!
