LISTENING TAPESCRIPT

(Please read twice.)

One Saturday morning Abby's Mum came upstairs to see Abby in her bedroom. Or tried to. There was so much mess on the floor she could only poke her head around the door. Abby sat in the middle of it all reading a book.

"You need to have a clear up in here. Things get broken or lost when they're all willy-nilly like this. Come on, have a tidy up now. I'll give you extra pocket money if you do a good job."

When Mum came back later all the toys and clothes and books had disappeared.

"It was easy," said Abby. "Can I have my extra pocket money now?"

"All right. Get it out of my change purse. It's in the kitchen tidy drawer."

In the kitchen Abby went over to the dresser and pulled open the tidy drawer. She hunted for the purse. She pulled the drawer out and carried it over to the table. Abby kneeled up on a chair to look inside. There were lots of boring things like staplers and string, but there were lots of interesting things as well. Abby carried on looking through the drawer. She found some vampire teeth, white face paint, plastic witchy nails and hair gel. She pulled out a plastic bag from her pirate party. She peeled the sticky backing off a false moustache and stuck it on Mum's top lip, then found a paint brush in the drawer and painted a fierce red scar down her cheek using fake blood. Mum clipped on some pirate earrings.

"Come here," Mum said and smeared white face paint all over Abby's face. She dribbled the fake blood so it looked as if it was coming out of Abby's eyes and mouth. She put gel all over Abby's hair and made it stand up into weird, pointy shapes. Abby put in the vampire teeth and slipped on the witchy fingers. She made scary noises at Wow-Wow the cat. He ignored her and carried on washing himself on the seat next to her. Abby came to sit on her Mum's knee. They both looked at the enormous heap of things spread over the kitchen table.

"Well, you know things will get lost, or broken, when they're all willy nilly," Abby said.

"You cheeky monkey!" Mum laughed. "But what shall I do with it all?"

"I know, it's easy," Abby said and began to scoop everything off the table into her arms. She dumped it all back in the kitchen drawer. Mum looked at her suspiciously. "Let's go and inspect your bedroom, shall we?"

Abby followed her upstairs and into her bedroom. Wow-Wow was sitting in front of her fish tank looking hungrily at the goldfish. He dashed under the bed when he saw Mum and Abby. Mum kneeled down and lifted the bed cover to get him out. Underneath were heaps of Abby's toys, books, tapes, clothes and shoes, empty plastic cups and wrappers, and a half-eaten sandwich on a plate.

"It's my tidy drawer," Abby said. She wrapped her arms around her Mum and gave her a kiss.

ROLE PLAY

TEACHER – older sibling

Your parents have gone to spend a weekend in a wellness hotel. They left some food in the fridge. They want you to look after your younger sibling during the weekend, and they have asked you specifically not to leave the house, not to throw a party, to do your homework (only you), to tidy your rooms and also the pool in the garden, and strongly suggested you read some books and maybe watch a U film* on Saturday evening. Your sibling doesn't know about these restrictions.

*U film – film restriction Universal, suitable for audiences aged 4 years and older
