| my spirits sort of in. Our sales manager assigned me to the  |
| Mill district – he claimed I had inside ties. The only   |
| thing than facing strangers door-to-door is finding people you know there. 16 worse  |
| Grinning, they'd asked me in. Mill employees opened their ice-boxes, brought me  |
| good things. I chattered my whole memorized, neighbors acted proud of me. 17 routine   |
| But I felt like a circus dog and stuffy teacher, mixed. Like a crook. When I finished,   |
| my hosts, said this book-set sure sounded great.  18 sighed  |
| Then they admitted what we'd known along – they just couldn't afford it. I'd spent 19 all  |
| forty minutes ignoring this. They looked troubled as I backed out, smiling. 'Hey,'   |
| I called. 'You'll save for the down payment. You'll get "Knowledge" in time – it'll  |
| mean more to you.' Then I knocked at the next door. I stood for an empty house. 20 praying   |
