BRANOC VALLEY BUS COMPANY

The Branoc Valley Bus Company, or BVBC as it is known to its employees, has been a local success story. Since it started operating twelve years ago, the company has made consistent effort to improve its service. There were four scheduled services per day from Seaville to Fording and back in previous years. This summer the BVBC successfully experimented with double that number and will do so again next year.

The BVBC summer service will end on the last Saturday in September. After that, there will be a reduced winter service. There will be three services daily except on Sunday, when buses will not run. For the first time since the company started running services, there will be service on public holidays this winter season.

The company is particularly proud of its record on fares and aims to increase them no more than once every other year. A scheduled 5 per cent rise to come after this month's rise will be held in line with that policy. This is one factor in the company's success. There are others, too. The BVBC boasts an excellent record on reliability. Not a single cancelled service throughout the summer is something to be proud of. So, too, is the extraordinary punctuality of the service, which, on a return journey of 20 miles along country lanes, was never more than 10 minutes late.

Complaints from passengers are very rare. The BVBC has received only three written complaints this summer and all of them were from the same person, who objected to being told to wear a seat belt. "People think it's the drivers who insist on passengers wearing seat belts," explained the company spokesman, "but that's the decision of the local council."

The drivers themselves are another part of the BVBC's success. Incredibly, all but one of the five regular drivers, Pat, who joined this summer after finishing university, have been with the company since it started. This gives the public a feeling of continuity. Sadly, the oldest of the drivers is due to retire at the end of summer. Jim Grey, another one of the BVBC's original drivers, says, "We'll all miss Fred, but we wish him all the best in his retirement."

Plans to introduce large buses have been revised. "Not that there isn't demand," the spokesman said, "we could probably find more passengers. The problem is that the roads just aren't wide enough."
