You are ready to embark on your own travel journey. You've tried making plans with friends and family, but there is always some excuse. Well, let me tell you, you're not totally out of luck. You can travel solo! Thanks to these tips, you won't feel lonely or at a disadvantage.

1. Be open and friendly. People are more likely to spark up a conversation with you if you are alone. On the other hand, remember to stay safe and use your common sense. If things seem okay, relax and have fun! You can create some genuine friendships through meeting folks abroad!
2. Stay in hostels. Okay, you might be thinking that hostels are gross, but there are some that are cleaner than hotels. They can save you lots of money as a solo traveller and are often a good way to meet people through the social events that are held there. Check ratings and reviews on multiple sites to be sure you are getting an accurate, clear picture of the space.
3. Stay in communication with home. Print out a general itinerary to give to your family members to ease their minds a bit. It also helps to give them a copy of your passport, insurance and important numbers. It doesn't hurt to call and give updates when you can as well.
4. Buy travel insurance and download some maps. You can't predict getting sick or an accident, so just in case of an emergency, it's always a good idea to have travel insurance. Having offline maps will save you and your taxi drivers from stress and a headache! Maps.me is a great app that you can download before you head off to your destination.
5. Do not listen to people who don't travel solo. People who have never travelled solo will try to warn you against this type of travelling. Of course, safety should be the highest priority when you are alone in another country, but don't let these people defer you from your dreams.

Student:

It's midnight and you have just come home from a party at the other end of town. Your American parents had told you to be back by 10.30 p.m. and they've been very worried about you. You are late because, like a typical teenager, you want to be a bit rebellious and disobedient. Moreover, you feel your American parents are too strict and you are mature enough to look after yourself. Explain your behaviour to them.

Teacher – An American parent:

It's midnight and your teenage Slovak daughter / son has just come home from a party at the other end of town. You had told her / him to be back by 10.30 p.m. and that's why you've been very worried about her / him. Describe your worries, say how irresponsible your Slovak child is acting, and what bad things could have happened.

You start.
